ARRESTED TODAY.

A Man Long Wanted in Brockton Is Found in This City.

Jeremiah Aldrich, Jr., a silverware agent, who has been canvassing in this vicinity for several days, was arrested this morning by Captain Dineen at the request of the Brockton police. The charge against Aldrich is the embezzlement of $56 from the firm of J. S. Rowens & Co. of Boston, instalment dealers. Aldrich claims that he had paid on all the goods he ever bought of this firm. The warrant upon which the man was arrested was over a year old, as Aldrich had been lost track of until Rowens & Co. got information that he was in this city. Aldrich was found at a boarding house on River street. He is a slick-looking fellow, 31 years old, and his home is said to be in Brockton.

MOOSE OR BUST!

The Four Maine Hunters Begin Their Long Campaign for Big Game.

A CARIBOU'S VIOLENT END

The Moose, Which Was a Cow Moose, and Her Calf. A Great Disappointent. A Sunday in Camp. Moose Fever Runs High.

CHAPTER III.

The bear scare passed with the night, and the sun rose on another day to find the one spirit in camp the spirit that hungered for moose. "Moose or Bust" was now the cry. Deer enough had been killed. Incidentally, we would shoot them, but it would only be venison on the side. Moose had the call. The council of war had so decided, and this morning saw the four hunters go a-moosing. It was the beginning of a 12-days' campaign. And how can we record all those long marches, the hunger and the great thirst endured, the buffets of moose misfortune, the tangles of swamp, the climbing of mountains, and the elusive tricks of the game we were after? Our pen fails us, and we shall only attempt to raise the curtain on a few of the characteristic scenes of this moose campaign.

That Caribou's Last Feed.

The first day's pursuit of moose was principally productive of lame legs and awful appetites. Spud and the guide George crossed mountain and dale to the westward and covered 20 miles. The judge and Rowe did the same thing. The quartet met at sun-down while returning at the top of West mountain, reported seeing deer and plenty of moose signs,—but that was all. Then Spud and George exhilarated themselves and ran three miles into camp, and the other two tried to keep in sight. That is another awful example of what strong drink will do for two men while two others have to suffer and try to keep up, when they are almost dead. But this was Caribou day, and the honor was Rob's. He felt like a father that day as the morning roll-call showed. His guide was "Old Machias."

The two had struck north in the morning, had gotten turned around once or twice during the day, and just at evening had gotten nearly back to camp, when they struck the very fresh trail of two moose. These they were following along an old tote road as noiselessly as cats, not breaking a twig or rustling a leaf, when suddenly a caribou track crossed the moose trail. Rob didn't so much as stir the foot he had raised to take the next step, but stopped half in the air and half on earth. In a moment he was to be in heaven sure. Turning his head to the right there stood a bull caribou, head down feeding, not more than 20 feet away and as unconscious of the presence of danger as if Rob were 20 miles away. There was only one shot possible—square in the rear. And that was where the caribou got it, somewhat to Rob's chagrin. It paralyzed the great creature, he raised his fine antlered head, swayed back and forth a moment, turned part way around, and then another shot behind the shoulder sent him to the ground. There was a hot time right there and then, and Rob and "Old Machias" sang old love songs as they marched to camp arm in arm.

A Rest Day.

The next day was observed as if Sunday. The first moose day had fixed everyone in camp but the guides, so hunting was at a standstill. All hands went out to the dead caribou to help bring him in. After he had been dressed, he was tied to a long pole and carried to camp by the six men. Every shoulder was blistered in that mile's jog. Egad! That caribou weighed more than 2,000 pounds before we got back to camp. But at 2 o'clock he was hung up before the camp door, and what a beauty he was. About a bull larger than the biggest deer, with a coat of gray, white and black, and peculiar branched horns sloping backward, he made a fine piece of game. But six shoulders had to be rubbed and oiled that night. A supper that would have stopped six mature pigs, a little of Longfellow, a little game in which the judge was learning something every night, and the bear brigade lay down with its side arms under the pillow and rifles within reach.

The Moose We Didn't Shoot.

"On to moose," was the battle cry next day, and that was the only day when moose were actually seen. And how sad it all was! We chronicle the incident with a sign. The guide George and Rowe took a new direction that day toward Webster mountain. All the forenoon they had hunted up one mountain and down another, through swamps and over hardwood ridges. Snow was falling and a gale blowing as they came along the side of a wooded ridge above Webster creek. Rowe had stopped to examine something ahead that looked like an immense black log stretched through the lower branches of a half dozen small trees. The guide whistled. "See that moose? "Where?" "Right ahead there." And then for the first time Rowe connected that great black log with four big stilt-like legs, and made out the puzzle. The creature was not a stone's throw away, and Rowe's hair inadvertently began to rise. How big did that creature look? Well, big enough to scare any man, and twice as big as a horse! That ugly ridge of long black hair would rise and fall on the great creature's back like—well—the devil. The head of the moose was out of sight behind a little spruce. Rowe's rifle came to his shoulder, the white ivory sight shone fair on the great black creature's shoulder, and the trigger was slowly being pressed. From behind the little spruce swung the great head. Lack-a-day! It was a cow moose! The Maine game laws protected her, and she had swung her head just in time. "She wears skirts, d—— her," said George. Four hundred dollars fine and three months in jail. No thank you, and the rifle came down, for only bull moose could be lawfully shot. From behind the old cow stepped out a 6-months old calf moose—bigger itself than any cow in Berkshire county. Then for fully five minutes the guide and Rowe watched this wrong-sexed game and saw it move off through the woods. Let us leave that scene of disappointment, before we hear George's bad language about the gentler sex. It was not chivalric. That night in camp was given up to moose talk. The moose fever was at its height.

Sunday in Camp.

The next day was Sunday and it was observed—after a fashion. The judge got up feeling bad, for his liver had quit doing business the day before, and, accordingly, he had to be doctored up by the druggist, who, he averred, maliciously fed him one pill too many, and so it couldn't be entirely a rest day for him anyway. When he could he read Ryder Haggard's "Cleopatra." Spud and Rowe hid the cards so as to keep the debilitated judge and Rob out of temptation. The guides went exploring for moose to South mountain. Spud read a very disreputable novel by Albert Ross while the editor read the Bible and Rob read Jerome's "Idle Thoughts of an Idle Fellow." Along in the afternoon all four hunters strolled out into the woods and took their guns along for protection. Judge and Spud had to shoot to save themselves from a very savage-looking deer that they felt might tear them to pieces if they didn't shoot. Rob pharisaically put the editor up to shooting a partridge or two, then at night boasted that he was the only man in camp who had observed the Sabbath. "Woe unto you, Scribe and Pharisee both." But at night, when the din dishes had been washed and put away, and Rob and Judge had vainly hunted for the cards, our better natures got the upper hands of us for a while. The guides were seated on the old wooden bench, three of the hunters lay on the bunk, and the editor from under the lantern at the table read the 18th and 103d Psalms and the last chapter of Ecclesiastes. The guides listened in astonishment, and "allowed that the Bible sounded pretty good." This was followed by a discussion in which Robert Ingersoll was raked over merciless coals and condemned. Then the little volume of Longfellow was opened and the tale of Miles Standish's courtship read. It did one's heart good to see the rough woodsmen the most intent of all the hearers, as they were, and when it was finished, to remark, as one did: "You fellows can be decent, can't ye?" Then the guides went to their bunks in the other camp, the bear brigade was ordered to have arms within easy reach, we rolled ourselves in our blankets on the sweet balsam boughs, thought of moose near at hand and friends far away, and were waiting for Monday morning, just as the rest of this story will have to wait for next Monday.

HALLOWE'EN CELEBRATIONS.

The Caledonian Club and Clan McIntyre Had Entertaining Programs.

The Caledonian club observed Hallowe'en in the Knights of Pythias hall Friday evening. There were about 200 persons present and the celebration was very enjoyable. It was of the nature of a gathering of a large family to observe some festival or family anniversary. The women's auxiliary of the club served an excellent supper. Alexandir McDougall, chief, gave a short address which was principally words of welcome. The concert program was rendered with spirit and among those who took part were J. Merrit, John McIntyre, Miss C. Dykes, Joseph Malone, James McKee, F. H. Whitlaw, J. Merrit, Sr., Miss Steer, Miss Bessie Mathews, T. Myrddin Jones and Prof. Fogg. There were extras that were as pleasing as the numbers of the set program. Dancing followed, the Ideal orchestra furnishing music.

Clan McIntyre, 128, O. S. C., held its annual Hallowe'en social and dance in St. Jean Baptiste hall Friday night and had a full house. There was a concert from 8 till 10.30 and after the supper dancing was indulged in till the early hours in the morning. The hall was packed full and everyone pronounced the affair a grand success. It was a success both financially and socially. The principal attraction was the "Tattie Pot." The prizes were taken by Miss Mabel McKane who got the first prize, Mrs. Robert Patton the second prize, Master Willie Chattam the third prize and Mrs. A. Ford the fourth prize. Prof. Andrews gave some good comic songs, Henry Bell and Prof. Tom Smith, Miss Patten, Maggie Mitchell and Harry Browne with his banjo did his very best. All went home well pleased with the entertainment and said they would come again.

BLACKINTON.

Mrs. John T. Carpenter and child of Lowell are visiting George P. Carpentor and family.

Prof. Mead will start a juvenile dancing class in Temperance hall Monday afternoon for children over 7 years of age.

The social given by Brigade 6, Order of Alfredians, in Temperance hall last evening, was largely attended and reflected much credit upon the society and committee of arrangements.

E. W. Blackinton will enter upon his duties as postmaster, to succeed P. H. Moloney, on November 1. Mr. Moloney has been a very obliging and efficient postmaster during the year and seven months he held office, and should have been allowed to serve out his time. The office will be placed in the Blackinton store as formerly.

GEORGE'S FUNERAL.

Preparations for an Imposing Ceremony to Be Held in New York Tomorrow.

New York, Oct. 30.—Hamlin Garland, the chairman of the George funeral committee, is attending to the general duties of the funeral. He said this morning that the body of the dead leader would be taken to the Grand Central palace some time this evening or perhaps about midnight tonight.

The service will be non-sectarian although there will possibly be some officiating clergymen. One of these will very probably be the Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn, the life long friend of Henry George, and the man who fought so hard a fight with him in the campaign of 1886.

The Rev. Dr. Heber Newton was talked of as one of the clergymen to take part in the service but it is thought that he will not be required to serve. Dr. McGlynn will not attend the services as a priest, but as a citizen and a friend of the dead man.

The seats in the Grand Central Palace will be arranged so that the procession that had been determined upon will not be interfered with by the people in the hall. The body will probably be placed on a bier, so that all who wish may at some time during the service or after it look on the face of the dead man.

There is some expectation that the procession will contain a large representation of the "Old Guards" or the men who followed Mr. George in the memorable campaign of 1886. The actual pall bearers will not be named till tonight.

On Their Way Home.

Liverpool, Oct. 30.—The Cunard line steamer Campania which sails from this port for New York today, has on her passenger list the names of Senator Edward O. Wolcott of Colorado and General Charles Jackson Paine of Massachuchusetts and Mrs. Paine. The gentlemen are of the bimetallic commission.

Blanco in Command.

Madrid, Oct. 30.—An official dispatch from Havana received today announces that Marshall Blanco the new captain general of Cuba has arrived there and has taken over the command of that island from General Weyler, the retiring captain general.

MR. HAMER TALKS

Consents to Tell a Transcript Reporter What Policy He Stands For.

SPEAKS IN A GENERAL WAY

But Says He Would Continue the General Plan of Public Improvement Now Being Made. No Definite Criticism Made.

The announcement of H. R. Hamer that he would be a candidate for mayor led THE TRANSCRIPT to seek an interview with Mr. Hamer today. He was seen at his home and gracefully submitted to the questions of the reporter.

Mr. Hamer said, "Fire away," when he was seated in his comfortable parlor.

The reporter followed his instructions and asked him if he would, in the event of his election to the office of mayor, continue the policy of permanent improvements incorporated by the present administration.

Mr. Hamer said he would consider the need of the city and the city's finances and act accordingly.

"Are you, Mr. Hamer opposed to the present method of public improvement?"

"I am opposed to the methods at present in operation. I should take the council and the people into my confidence."

"But, Mr. Hamer, whether the people are taken into confidence does not alter the methods employed, does not say that they are wrong or right. Are you opposed to the methods?"

"I am opposed to the methods. I think the city is a corporation and that its business should be conducted in a business way."

"Do you think that the methods have not been such as they might be; will you say in what respect they are wrong?"

"I don't think I should answer that at present. Something will come up at the next council meeting that will bear upon it. I think in such business as the letting of the recent contracts improvement could be made."

"Would you give an illustration of what you think is not right. Do you speak in a general way or with reference to particular things?"

"I speak in a general way."

"Are you in favor of carrying on the public improvements under the special permanent act or would you suspend those improvements? Do you think that it would embarass the city to do so?"

"I cannot say what I should do in all things. If I were elected I would be in a better position to give an opinion. I should use my right and suggest to the council what I thought proper and have the meeting with that body."

"But would you personall be in favor of continuing the work, and do you think the money could be borrowed without causing financial inconvenience to the city?"

"With reference to that I should be in favor of continuing the work and I think the permanent improvement loan could be safely assured."

"Continuing practically along the present lines?"

"Yes."

"Would you make a change in the personnel of the administration?"

"I have no sweeping changes in mind. I might not remove a man and might remove them all."

"From your knowledge of public affairs, would you say that there is an office that would be better filled?"

"No. I might find conditions were I in office that would change my opinion on some things."

"Mr. Hamer are you looking for the Republican nomination?"

"The stand I have taken has been brought about by what I think is a general demand and I shall accept the nomination from those who have influenced me in whatever way they choose to offer it. Every one knows that I am a Republican, but I suppose that the city affairs are to be conducted on non-partisan lines."

"What do you think is the basis for this general demand that you should accept the nomination for mayor?"

"I think it would not be proper for me to answer that. If I am elected I shall be elected by the people."

"But I would like to know if you think you are chosen because of a dissatisfaction with the present state of affairs?"

It was explained to Mr. Hamer that the people might look upon him as an opposition candidate and it was desired to determine whether he was in opposition.

"I have answered you," he said "in the point of opposition, I am opposed to present methods."

"Then you can be construed to be an opposition candidate?"

"Yes."

Mr. Hamer has no plan of government outlined to put in practice. He would accept the office and shape his action with reference to what he finds to be condition. He has no specific criticism to make. He makes no criticism more than that he believes business methods do not prevail.

He would not seek to amend the charter so that the executive officers would be compelled to come before the council when requested.

He believes there is nothing to prevent their coming before the council now if they are disposed and the council requests.

With reference to improving outlying districts he would act as conditions would permit.

"What would you do with reference to corporations that have franchises from the city?"

"I should demand the full observance of all contracts, as, for instance, in the case of the Hoosac Valley Street railroad."

The Baptist Concert.

The concert given Friday night at the Baptist church was a very successful musical entertainment. The local talent did unusually well and the singing of Miss Gertrude Dymond was a decided musical treat. The encores all the musicians were favored with showed how much the audience was delighted. The musicians were given a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. DeWolfe after the concert.

Fine Flowers.

The beautiful chrysanthemums in the window of Jeweler Dickinson are from the hot house of A. C. Houghton. They were cultivated to their striking perfection by Henry A. Lane, Mr. Houghton's head gardener, who is a very successful florist. Lovers of fine flowers should see those chrysanthemums.

—A son was born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh of East Main street.

—Members of the church choirs are requested to attend the rehearsal at the Baptist church this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Mrs. Porter Green, who had been stopping for nearly three months at the home of her mother, Mrs. Humphrey Anthony, at Zylonite, started today for her home in Jefferson, Iowa.

Jack Doyle defeated Michael Cody by three points in a pool tournament at O'Brien's fine pool room on Centre street Friday evening. The referee was Daniel Neil and the scorer was Richard O'Brien, proprietor of the pool room, who is planning entertaining games for the future. The championship of the county will be played at his rooms during the holidays.

MR. HAMER A CANDIDATE.

Harry Hamer today left the following announcement of his candidacy for mayor of this city at this office:

In answer to many people of all classes who, in the last three months, have asked me to be a candidate for the office of mayor, I hereby state that, according to their wish, I am a candidate for that office.

HARRY R. HAMER.

Mr. Hamer answers what he believes to be a call from the people of all classes. His candidacy now announced will and should have the fair consideration of the people of this city. Their answer will be forthcoming undoubtedly as soon as the state election is past and the city campaign fairly opens.

BOOT AND SHOE OUTLOOK.

Word comes from an investigation of the boot and shoe business at Lynn that the market is strong, but not very active. The factories have a fair supply of orders on hand and the manufacturers maintain values. There is little prospect of lower prices for footwear, unless an unlooked for break should happen in leather values. Orders from the West have come in quite freely, and good prices have been received for women's goods.

Hide and Leather, in an article on the leather situation, says:—"Some leather men are sanguine enough to predict higher prices for leather with the coming of the new year. While their anticipations may be realized, it is well to remember that although hides have been closely snapped up at extreme quotations, there is a reasonably ample supply of leather in process and finished, and this knowledge may allay a tendency to excitement in leather."

Shoe shipments make a fair showing. The forwardings from Boston for the past week, according to the footings of the Shoe and Leather Reporter, were 80,037 cases against 77,515 cases last week and 80,610 cases for the corresponding week last year. Shipments since January 1 have been 3,399,488 cases, against 3,397,970 cases for the same time last year, an increase of 91,498 cases for this year's business.

Wont baby Cleveland be "an old man's darling," though?

Berkshire's special duty: A big Republican majority next Tuesday.

Vote the Republican ticket. Every name on it is that of a worthy man.

The general opinion of the press and politicians seems to be that the death of Henry George has strengthened Mr. Low.

Robert G. Ingersoll says that the United States could lick the combined world. Well perhaps we could, but we don't want to.

Begin with Governor Wolcott and vote the Republican ticket right down the list. It is all good.

The ex-Confederate General, Longstreet, gets the office of commissioner of railroads from President McKinley. The war has long been over.

Are you going to church tomorrow? Are you going to the polls Tuesday? One duty is as imperative as the other, and one as christian as the other.

Dick Croker hissed and hissed again by Tammany braves in Tammany hall! When will the wonders of the New York city municipal campaign cease?

Men have differed from Henry George politically and have bitterly attacked his economic theories, but who has ever questioned the honesty of the great single ax theorist?

The New York Tribune calls the Sun "an old polecat," and the Sun calls the Evening Post "the universal traducer." The New York papers will be interesting reading by Monday when the final bombarding takes place.

A wagon passed through Northern Kansas recently bearing this inscription: "Colorado and irrigation: Kansas and stagnation; Populistic administration and damnation. I'm going to my wife's relation and make no demonstration."

The danger that faces hunters this season was further emphasized at Lancaster, N.H., last week, when an amateur sportsman shot an old mare, thinking it was a bear. Hunters ought to be required to pass a civil service examination as to coolness in the face of game.

W. Murray Crane, W. B. Plunkett and George P. Lawrence are hoping that Berkshire's Republican majorities this year will be overwhelming. They want first of all the hearty endorsement of their neighbors and county. Let us give them that endorsement.

Thus far this season 1000 deer have been killed in Maine. There were 6106 deer killed in the Adirondacks during the open season last year—3233 bucks and 3173 does. Of these 3431 were killed by hounding, 1599 by night hunting and 1286 by still hunting. Still hunting is the only kind allowed in Maine, and the only hunting that gives the game a fair show.

Disquieting rumors of war are being exploited by the sensational papers again. This time they profess to have discovered by some secret process or telepathetic agency that the contents of the note sent by Spain to this government is defiant in tone and that war is inevitable. But these rumors ought not to disturb the serenity of peace-lovers; they are intended only to appease the craving of the bellicose for war talk.

There is something about an old-line Republican that is mighty likable. One of these old war-horses is E. R. Tinker of this city. When asked by a friend today where his sympathies were in the New York city campaign, he tossed his white locks back, straightened up an inch or two, and said: "I am for Tracy first and last. A man who has followed the Republican flag since 1851 won't be found deserting now." There is a good ring in that doctrine.

Mr. Bryan is making a flying trip through Ohio, visiting only small towns and making several of them a day. He is traveling in a palace car. It is a private vehicle, voluptuously furnished and the cost of operating it must be a large sum each day. His conversations to the farmers of Ohio who are selling wheat at a dollar a bushel are made from the rear platform of the car. He tells them that Mark Hanna is a bloated plutocrat who grinds the faces of the poor and that the salvation of the farmer from the curse of low and falling prices is in calling things worth not what they are, but something else.

FOR SUNDAY.

A Friend to Man.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the place of their self-content;
There are souls, like stars, that dwell apart,
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran;
But let me live by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by;
The men who are good and the men who bad,
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban;
Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears,
Both parts of an infinite plan,
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead,
And mountains of wearisome hight;
And the road passes on through the long afternoon
And stretches away to the night.
But still I rejoice when the travelers rejoice,
And weep with the strangers that moan.
Nor live in my house by the side of the road
Like a man who dwells alone.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by;
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Wise, foolish, and so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

—Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mack are settled in their pleasant new home on Yale street.

—Mrs. Esther Pike has taken a position with the Krum Manufacturing company and will introduce the company's specialties in this city and surrounding towns.

—Seats are now on sale at the Wilson house drug store for Bates Bros.' Comedy company, which opens a week's engagement at the Wilson opera house Monday in "The Buckeye."

—The attention of the truant officer is called to the fact that there is an unusually large number of small boys on the streets these days, whose place should be in school.

—Frank Eddy has had very good luck at bee hunting this season. Four weeks ago he took up a tree in bear swamp which yielded 100 pounds of good honey, and about a week ago he took from a tree on the mountain above Mrs. Harrum's place 70 pounds of equally good quality. This afternoon he went, accompanied by E. H. Beer and George N. Rich, to the vicinity of the Notch to take up another tree. The Bear swamp tree was the best found in this section in many years.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Miss Julia Sullivan has returned from a six weeks' visit in New York.

Mrs. Thomas Harrower of East Brooklyn street is quite seriously ill.

A DANGEROUS PLACE.

A Horse Falls Into a Ditch in the Road at the Beaver.

As Charles Arnold of the firm of Ford & Arnold, was driving one of their four-horse teams to Stamford, Vt., Friday evening, one of the leaders fell in a ditch at the Beaver and it was only by the best of good fortune that the horse escaped without breaking its leg There were lanterns on the road but not near the ditch. If the horse had been injured it would have been a clear case for damages against the city. Such carelessness on the part of the authorities is wholly inexcusable.

The Daughters Event.

The Daughters of Rebekah held a very fine social and dance in Odd Fellows' hall Friday evening. The women managed the affair and made a decided success of the event. They should try again.

HOWLAND TERRACE WON.

The Horse Race at the Fair Grounds This Morning Was Very Tame.

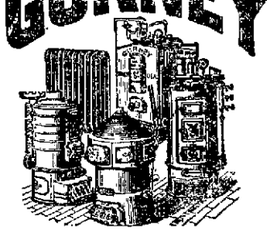

Ever since the last horse race between C. H. Orcutt's "Howland Terrace" and Harry Donahue's "Surprise" there has been a deal of dissatisfaction on the part of Mr. Donahue who claimed he was robbed of the race. As a result they arranged a race for $100 and it took place at the fair grounds this morning. Stephen Tracy drove "Surprise" and Walter O'Brien "Howland Terrace." The latter horse won in three straight heats. The time was 3.18, 3.06 and 3.01½. Mr. Hunter of Williamstown was judge and Thomas Goodin, referee. Mr. Orcutt's horse won easily.

"Ladder of Fame."

The largest audience of the week witnessed the production of the Bates Comedy company in the opera house last evening, when the work of Tuesday night was produced with new specialties. "The Ladder of Fame" proved itself able to interest and amuse, and those who attended the performance were thoroughly pleased with the work of the members of the company. That the members of the company played their parts well and merited the large amount of applause which they received, goes without saying. The work of last evening was uncommonly good, and the only regret which the Torrington people have is that the Bates company closes its engagement here tonight. The work of C. C. Blanchard deserves especial mention. His specialties were excellent.—Waterbury, Conn., American.

At the Wilson next week. Seats on sale at the Wilson house drug store.

PRICE NO MORE THAN "JUST as GOOD"

Mrs. Edith M. Peck.

Mrs. Edith M. Peck, widow of Henry H. Peck, died this morning at 1 o'clock at her home, 18 Houghton street, aged 57 years. She had suffered for a year or more with a bronchial trouble and had been running down for some time past with a rapidity that alarmed her family and friends, to most of whom her death was not unexpected. Mrs. Peck's husband died five years ago, and a year and a half before that time a stepdaughter to whom she was greatly attached was removed by death. These afflictions were felt very keenly by her and since then her health has never been as good as before.

Mrs. Peck was a most estimable woman and her death will be mourned by many friends. She had been for many years a member of the Baptist church and her daily life showed that she was sincere in her professions. She was a devoted wife and to her stepchildren she fulfilled conscientiously and affectionately all the duties and obligations of a mother. Those living are W. H. and Miss Carrie C. Peck of this city, who have much sympathy in the loss they sustain by her death. Mrs. Peck also leaves a number of brothers and sisters living in New York state.

To Have a Reading Room.

The Central Labor union hall has been arranged so as to have a reading room attached. The hall is open all day for the convenience and enjoyment of the members of the different trade unions. This is a good move in the proper direction and it is hoped that all will take cognizance of this action.

WONDERFUL POWER OF ANIMAL MAGNETISM.

Dr. E. K. Parker, the Magnetic Physician, at the Richmond House, North Adams, Mass., Continues to Heal the Sick by His Wonderful Magnetic Power.

It scarcely seems creditable that such marvelous cures can be obtained by any form of treatment much less by the magnetic currents produced by the simple application of the hands to the affected parts, but the evidence of scores of invalids who have been cured by Dr. Parker cannot fail to satisfy the most sceptical. Hundreds of helpless invalids who have suffered for years and who have failed to find even temporary relief from other sources, have been permanently cured by his wonderful magnetic power. Mr. W., a well-known citizen, came to Dr. Parker about four weeks ago, completely discouraged. He had suffered from one of the worst forms of dyspepsia for several years. He had a constant pain and distress in the stomach which never left him day or night. He enjoyed a good appetite, but his food seemed to do him no good. It soured on his stomach and seemed to ferment instead of digesting properly. He failed rapidly, lost flesh, and became so weak and feeble that it was with great difficulty that he could walk the distance of a half mile. He could not get to sleep at night on account of a flood of ideas that crowded into his mind, and when he did sleep he was restless and uneasy, caused by unpleasant dreams. He finally grew so much worse that his friends feared that he was not long for this world. He became a mere shadow of his former self. His bowels were obstinately constipated. Six months ago an examination of his urine revealed the fact that he was suffering from diabetes. Large quantities of sugar were found in his urine. He had tried the skill of a number of eminent physicians, none of whom did him any good. He had entirely despaired of recovery until he heard of Dr. Parker, the magnetic physician, at the Richmond House. He resolved to make one more effort to get well, and immediately called on Dr. Parker. After making an examination of his case, and after hearing the names of the eminent physicians who had failed to benefit him, the doctor reluctantly told him that he would undertake his case, but that he would not promise a cure. With this understanding the doctor began the treatment and, as strange as it may seem, today, after one month's magnetic treatment, Mr W. is convalescent, and will become a well man and another living advertisement for Dr. Parker. Mr. W. is not willing that his full name should appear in the paper. But any one suffering from diabetes, dyspepsia, or any other obstinate, chronic disease will be furnished with it on making application to Dr. Parker at the Richmond House.

Lunch Cart on Fire.

The business men on Centre street were somewhat frightened Friday evening about 6 o'clock at seeing the street suddenly illuminated. It was caused by a fire in James Kevlin's lunch wagon. The proprietor had lighted a small oil stove used in heating coffee and it began to flicker as if about to explode. Fearing an explosion Mr. Kevlin started to throw it out of the cart but in his excitement, he could not open the door and the burning lamp fell to the floor. He then kicked it out and the draft from the door made the flames catch from the burning sawdust that was on the floor and they went creeping up the sides of the cart. Mr. Kevlin extinguished the fire by throwing milk and coffee on it. One corner of the cart was badly charred and Mr. Kevlin's hair was singed as were his eyebrows. It was due to Mr. Kevlin's coolness that a serious fire was averted.

Mr. Decoigne's Horse Stolen.

Louis Decoigne of the East road reported to the police Friday that his horse had been stolen from his barn, Thursday evening. He had last seen the horse about 9 o'clock Wednesday evening and when he arose the following morning at 5 o'clock it was gone. Chief Carran has sent out cards giving a description of the animal. It is a dark bay, 14½ hands high, weighs 1100 pounds, has two shoe galls, both hind legs are scarred, is lame in the right fore shoulder, the left eye is a watch eye with a scar over it. The animal is the same one which ran away a few weeks ago.

The program as printed in Friday's TRANSCRIPT was well rendered and all who took part acquitted themselves well. After the concert all kinds of amusement was furnished and it was the good will and spirit shown by everyone present that helped to make it the enjoyable time it was. The committee who arranged it may well feel proud of their work.

Bioscope Entertainment.

The bioscope entertainment to be given in the opera house Monday evening is like that given at the Baptist church Friday evening, only the pictures are colored and produce a more pleasing effect. The collection to be exhibited is among the best that can be procured. Do not miss it. Seats on sale at Mole's drug store, and tickets are being sold by the members of Div. 3, A. O. H.

A Good Entertainment.

About 400 people attended the projectoscope entertainment at the First Baptist church Friday evening and all were well pleased with the attraction. The living pictures were all shown to good advantage and the selections on the graphophone given between the pictures served to make it an evening of much pleasure and interest.

DR. EVERETT AT LYNN.

Criticises Williams Democracy For Distinction as to Classes.

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 28.—The national Democrats held the first big rally of the campaign in this city last night, nearly 800 people being present to listen to the discussion of the issues of the day by Dr. William Everett, candidate for governor, Colonel Henry A. Lamb of Brookline and William A. Murphy of Boston. Henry F. Hurlburst presided, and the first speaker to be introduced was Dr. Everett, who received a rousing reception when he was presented to the audience, and was frequently applauded during his address.

"Why should the Democrats of Massachusetts renounce their opinions?" he asked. "Why should they accept the sectional silver standard, got up in the interest of certain portions of the country and at the dictation of the delegations from other states in the Union? I have heard it said that Massachusetts did not vote for a Democratic president, and that therefore Massachusetts Democrats were bound to give up their idea of Democracy. Nothing for years has given the national Democratic party all over the nation such a start as the uprising in 1884 of thousands of Democrats in Massachusetts in support of the nomination of Mr. Cleveland. The strength and life and vigor and new force that have come into the Democratic party in the last dozen years have come, not from the old states that are always Democratic, but from the new spirit that came into the Democratic party from the states that have not been Democratic before, and the very greatest inspiration in the regenerated Democratic party came from Massachusetts under the three years' governorship of the late lamented Russell. (Applause).

"And it was something more than that. This idea that a majority vote in such a convention settles it all is not American liberty, it is not American Democracy, it is not American equality. I think, Mr. Chairman, this fact is beginning to be recognized.

"The party calling itself still the regular Democracy is beginning to find out there is something a little queer about its proceedings. It is getting spoken of emphatically as the new Democracy. It is a very new Democracy indeed. It has very little in common with the Democracy which has been coeval with the history of the republic. We believe the true principle of American Democracy is that every man in every part of the country is equal under the constitution and before the law, and that no American can claim he is in any sense more of an American citizen than his neighbor and his brother. (Applause). There is no difference in this respect between us and those who call themselves the new Democracy. They arraign the Republican party, just as we always have, for its violation of the true principles of American equality in legislation. (Applause).

"I do not hesitate to say that the so called new Democracy is equally violating the new principle of individual

Will Demand Damages—Proposed Weston Field Improvements—Still They Come.

Will Demand Damages.

H. W. Allsop, who does an express business between this town and North Adams, will ask somebody to pay for a barrel of flour that was dumped from his wagon onto the ground at Blackinton Friday morning. He was returning from North Adams with a load of stuff among which was a barrel of flour for Mr. Lyman, who lives near the west end of Blackinton village. As Mr. Allsop drove into the road his wagon wheels slipped on the street railroad track and the barrel of flour was thrown out. The barrel burst and most of the flour was wasted. Mr. Allsop will ask the town to settle, on the ground that the driveway to Mr. Lyman's place has been neglected, and if the town does not assume the responsibility he will present his claim to the street railroad company.

Weston Field Improvement.

E. M. Jerome, Professor Russell and Dr. F. W. Olds, the committee appointed to inquire into the matter of improving Weston field, have submitted a report, in which they enumerate the improvements that in their judgment are necessary to make the field what it should be, and which would cost between $10,000 and $11,000. A general outline of the proposed changes was given in THE TRANSCRIPT last summer. The students have subscribed over $1,000 for the work, and it is hoped to raise the rest of the funds by subscriptions from the alumni. The report will be printed in full and circulated among the alumni.

GOOD COOKERY,

My Dear Jennie:

So you want some good recipes for breakfast dishes which will put everyone in good humor for the day? Well, there is a good deal of wisdom in that idea. Give a man, woman or child a dainty, appetizing first meal, and it helps wonderfully in the disposition throughout the day. People generally feel dull in the morning, are almost always in a hurry, and nothing pleases them more than a good breakfast.

The first thing, and to many the most important, is the coffee. To have this clear, put the ground coffee in a cloth, tied loosely, put in the pot with cold water, let it come to a good boil, set in the back of the stove for a minute and then serve

A simple and favorite breakfast dish with English people is hash, that much-jeered-at comestible. Now cold potatoes, chopped fine, a third as much meat, an eighth as much cold beet, pepper, salt, a bit of butter, all properly mixed, and fried in a skillet in butter until a rich brown crust is formed, will generally disappear rapidly at any breakfast table. The common fault with hash is that it is simply warmed, not fried and browned.

Excellent English breakfast cakes are called

OXFORD GEMS.

For these, use one cupful of graham flour, one cupful of cornmeal, one teaspoonful of salt, one egg, one heaping teaspoonful of baking power and cold water to mix like other gems. Have the gem pans hot, grease slightly, drop the batter in from a spoon and bake in a hot oven for ten minutes.

A quick biscuit may be made of one quart of flour, one tablespoonful of baking powder, one tablespoonful of lard, one teaspoonful of salt and milk enough so you can just stir the mixture with a spoon. Place one spoonful at a time gently in a floured tin, so they will touch each other. Bake in a hot oven. You will find these are easily prepared and very nice.

I know you are fond of omelets, and so I send you the recipe for a which is very good. Heat three cupfuls of milk, melting in it a bit of butter the size of a walnut. Beat thoroughly five eggs, one tablespoonful of flour and a scant teaspoonful of salt and add to the hot milk, stirring as rapidly as possible. Turn into a hot and well-buttered frying pan and bake in a quick oven for fifteen minutes. I am quite sure you will find this a pleasing change from fried omelets.

If your family like cornmeal cakes, you will find the

made by Aunt Julia decidedly appetizing. Sift one and one-half cups of white cornmeal, with a teaspoonful of sugar and a level teaspoonful of salt. Add one cup of cold boiled rice and a teaspoonful of lard. Mix all together and scald with two cups of boiling water, stirring constantly. This, with one and one-half cups of sour milk, one-half teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in a little milk, and last of all stir in one beaten egg. Bake on a hot greased griddle.

Yesterday Annie gave us some

for breakfast, made from the following rule: Carefully remove the bones from two cupfuls of cold boiled salt mackerel and add an equal quantity of mashed potatoes, a half teaspoonful of pepper and two eggs well beaten. Shape into balls and fry in hot fat in a frying basket.

PICK-ME-UPS,

or breakfast muffins are easily and quickly made, and the ingredients required are one cup of sugar, one egg, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one pint of sweet milk, three cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt. Simple, but very good.

A good way to prepare salt codfish for breakfast is in the style called

CODFISH FRITTERS.

For the fritters beat four eggs into a cupful of milk and add a cupful of salt codfish, which has been soaked in cold water until soft. Fry on a hot buttered griddle, as you would an omelet.

I think with these different rules you will find something which will please the master of the house as well as the "young hopefuls," and will not be a great trouble to prepare. Let me know how they suit you.

Yours culinarily,
COMFORT JONES,
Doctor of Cookery.

BREAKFAST PUFFS.

Sift half a pint of flour, a saltspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder together. Stir into it gradually a gill of milk, and stir this into the flour. Now add the white of an egg previously whipped to a foam and pour into individual tins. Bake in a quick oven.

TOMATO CATSUP.

One peck of fine tomatoes, one large onion, two tablespoonfuls of salt, one-half pint of vinegar, two small red peppers, one tablespoonful of whole cloves and two tablespoonfuls of broken stick cinnamon. Wash and wipe the tomatoes, cut up and cook till scarcely soft enough to strain, then add the onion, peppers, salt and spices. Simmer till the fruit is very soft and put all through a strainer that will retain the seeds, then put the pulp into a bag of heavy muslin and drain. When well drained return the tomato pulp to the kettle, add the vinegar, heat to the boiling point and put into bottles immediately and seal. This insures a heavy catsup of fine flavor and of a bright red color.

CREAM CRULLERS.

One and one-half cups sugar, two cups cream, two eggs, two teaspoonfuls Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder mixed in enough flour to roll out soft. Cut in desired shapes, and fry in very hot lard.

QUINCE JELLY.

To make quince jelly, cover the skins and bits with the water in which the quinces were cooked, adding sufficient cold water to cover them. Bring to a boil and simmer half an hour. Pour into a jelly bag and strain over night. No squeezing. To each pint of liquor add one pound of sugar. Boil for ten minutes and begin to test. At the first appearance of jelly remove from the fire and pour into the hot tumblers. Cover with paraffine, after the jelly has cooled for twenty-four hours.

FORCE-MEAT BALLS FOR SOUP.
(Miss Wister.)

Take cold fresh meat or chicken, chop very fine; add flour enough to make it stick together in balls about the size of a marble. Roll in flour, and fry in Cottolene until brown. Add to soup just before serving.

TOMATOES CANNED.

Wash, peel and cut the tomatoes into pieces. Cook in a porcelain kettle for thirty minutes. Put them boiling hot into the jars and fasten the covers on at once. To can them whole, select small round tomatoes and pack them into jars without peeling. Fill with cold water and add a little salt to each jar. Cook thirty minutes in a washboiler. Put the jars in about two inches apart and let the water boil around them. The jars must be filled up very full before fastening on the covers. Do not boil over thirty minutes and allow them to boil evenly and not too briskly.

MINT SAUCE.

Wash, dry and chop a bunch of mint leaves. Put them into a sauce boat with three-quarters of a cup of vinegar, in which two tablespoonfuls of sugar have been dissolved. Allow the sauce to stand an hour before using it. If a hot sauce be desired, heat the vinegar and sugar and add the mint leaves the last thing before serving.

COLLATA PUDDING.

Take one square of chocolate, one cup of fine cracker crumbs, one large tablespoonful of butter, one cup of boiled milk, one-half a cup of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla and the whites of four eggs. Grate the chocolate, mix it with the cracker, add the butter and the hot milk and mix thoroughly. Add the sugar, vanilla and the eggs, beaten very light. Boil in a buttered melon mould one hour.

AN ARTICLE OF FAITH.

Because It Has Been Proved in North Adams.

The remarkable cures accomplished in North Adams by California Catarrh Cure during the last seven months are something to astonish and convince the most skeptical. No wonder the people believe in it; no wonder a prominent druggist lately said: "Belief in California Catarrh Cure is an article of faith in North Adams, because people know for themselves, without regard to what any interested Parties say, of cures it has wrought among their friends and neighbors." Why! People have suffered for years, and never dreamed they could get any relief by using anything and some day a friend says: "California Catarrh Cure cured me, it will cure you, and you won't have to wait to find out about it either. It relieves at once."

Here are the words of one of your neighbors now, telling why she believes in it. You know that it is true because you know her.

Mrs. Edgar Montgomery, 35 Brooklyn street, North Adams, says: "I feel grateful to California Catarrh Cure for the way it has benefited my little boy. His head was in a terrible condition; catarrh had so stuffed up the passages of the nose that it was hard work for him to breathe, and he was constantly snuffling. Since using C. C. C., which I got at Burlingame & Darbys' drug store, the relief has been so great that he can now breathe easily and sleep better nights; it has also greatly lessened the snuffing which was very annoying to me, and I think by a thorough use will cure him entirely."

California Catarrh Cure is sold in a great big bottle for 50 cents, and one nearly three times as large for one dollar. Nothing else is "as good" no matter who says so for nothing else cures as quickly.

California Catarrh Cure is sold at all drug stores.

In cases of Hay Fever, California Catarrh Cure gives instant relief, and used in season it will entirely prevent the malady.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE.

The Union Holds Its Fifth Annual Meeting at Lynn Friday.

The fifth annual meeting of the Baptist young people's union of Massachusetts was opened in the Washington street Baptist church in Lynn Friday by Rev. G. W. Quick of Springfield. At the election of officers the following were chosen: President, H. T. Bailey of North Scituate; vice-presidents, W. W. Main of Boston, W. C. King of Springfield, Rev. H. S. Johnson of Pittsfield; secretary, Rev. M. F. Johnson of Middleboro; treasurer, Vernon A. Field of Boston.

A Noontime Runaway.

The people living along East Brooklyn street were brought to their doors and windows yesterday by a runaway which was planned and executed by a horse belonging to John Sullivan, the grocer. The horse was driven by Mr. Sullivan's son, William, and it was while the latter was delivering goods in a house that the animal conceived the idea of forsaking the grocery business, and so he started up the street at a rattling gait, with the wagon bumping merrily along behind him, free to go where grass was sweetest and existence most delightful generally. In the meanwhile young Sullivan had come out of the house and discovering his horse gone, set out in hot pursuit. The pursued, however, had a splendid handicap and gained every minute, so that it was not until a hill put a check to his speed that he was captured. No damage was done to the wagon and the horse submitted to the will of fate and continued business at the old stand.

Afternoon and Evening.

John Isham's Octoroons will be seen for the first time in this city at Columbia opera house Wednesday afternoon and evening. The company is one of the strongest colored aggregations on the stage and is said to be superior to Black Patti's Troubadours, which made such a decided hit here. The program will consist of an opening skit, a variety performance and ending with a grand review of the popular opera. The company is very strong musically and consists of forty people. A ladies' matinee will be given at 2.30 o'clock and souvenirs will be distributed. Seats for matinee and evening performances will go on sale at Bartlett's drug store Monday at 9 o'clock a. m.

THE ONLY WHITE MAN

Capt. Moses Rice, the First White Settler at Charlemont Between Forts.

WAS KILLED BY INDIAN.

Interesting Chapter About the Time When Fort Massachusetts Was Burned. Glimpse at Life and Habits a Century and a Half Ago.

The flag raising at the old Fort Massachusetts site and the subsequent talk has led to the unearthing of some history concerning Captain Moses Rice, the only white settler at one time at Charlemont between Fort Massachusetts and Fort Deerfield. The name of Rice is still prominent in the valley and Fred S. Rice and his relatives are descendents of the pioneer captain, whose demesne contained 22,000 acres. He once had a bill of 500 pounds for entertaining troops in those unsettled days. The following is an extract from his private accounts:

1743—August Captain Moses Rice to a pair of shoes for your boy [Artemas]		17
to a pare for your son Samuel		20
to two pare of Magasins		18
to mending your butts		8
to a pare of shoes for Dinah		16
to a pare of shoes for your wife and a pare for tamer	1	4
1744—to a pare of shoes for Aaron	1	1
to 15 pounds and three quarters of towe		19
March ye 12—to 4 pare of shoas	5	16
1746—August, to a pare of shoas for Aaron and a pare for vene [Silvanus]	2	12
to bilting your folks

Here is an interesting sketch concerning him and his tragic death:

"In the spring of 1743 Moses Rice settled at Boston Township No. 1, now Charlemont, with a well grown family of children. In August, 1746, he was a prosperous farmer with a well stocked farm and abundant growing crops. His was the only house between Deerfield and Fort Massachusetts, a hospitable haven for traders going to Albany for furs, for scouting parties, and for soldiers marching back and forth, furnishing the fort with supplies from the commissary at Deerfield. August 20, Fort Massachusetts was surrounded by 300 French and Indians and after 20 hours of gallant defense by Sergt. John Hawks, the fort was given up.

Had his folks gone to Deerfield shopping? or on a summer vacation? Why were Rice's folks at Deerfield, 22 miles from their snug home in Charlemont? Fleeing with hurrying feet and empty hands, they had sought a haven of prefuge there, leaving all behind to the red demons of destruction, of whose approach they had somehow a timely warning. It may have been, as was sometimes the case, by frightened cattle running home from the woods.

By some means, the Lord only knows how, the news of this assault came over the mountain to the home of Moses Rice, and all the family fled for their lives to Deerfield. Having seen his family safely secured Rice went back to look after his flocks and herds. He found only a scene of desolation. The savages had been close upon his flight; had burnt all his buildings, with household goods and clothing; destroyed his crops and killed his stock. The family had a narrow escape. How thankful was Moses that his "folks" were safely "billited" with Stebbins. He took them all back to his old home in Rutland; but at the close of the old French war returned to his farm. Here, while peacefully laboring in his field he was killed by Indians, June 1, 1755. Phinehas Arms, a young soldier from Deerfield, shared his fate.

PRINT CLOTH CRISIS.

Manufacturers Casting About For Some Way to Reduce Expenses.

The print cloth report at Fall River for this week does not show very satisfactory results, and the situation is calling forth considerable comment from stockholders who have seized upon the opportunity offered by the annual meetings to criticize somewhat the methods in vogue there. The production has been normal, 239,000 pieces, and the sales have been comparatively light. The stock on hand has been increased 90,000 pieces. The market is dull at 2¾ cents.

Manufacturers have come to the conclusion that the cost of production must be lowered if they are to compete with southern mills, and they have agreed upon a novel plan. It is nothing more or less than an appeal to the operatives to accept a cut of 18 cents in wages. This plan is not generally approved by manufacturers. At the meeting of the stockholders of the Merchants' mill this week, Captain R. P. Reynard argued in favor of a reduction of the treasurer's salary. The answer of the treasurer, Andrew Borden, was that a treasurer certainly earned his salary in hard times if not in good times.

—A large party of young people from this city enjoyed a dance in the Stamford town hall Friday night and arrived home at 4 o'clock this morning.

SUPERIOR COURT

The Folwell Libel Suit Against the Union Raises Interesting Law Points.

A QUESTION OF RESPONSIBILITY

The Agreement of Publisher Langtry With the Company to Relieve It From Liability Was Declared Invalid. A. M. Robinson and A. P. Carpenter Admitted

The Berkshire superior court was occupied Friday forenoon with the case of Frederick S. Folwell against the Springfield Union Publishing company, and few cases have been more hotly contested on law points in the Berkshire courts for years. Lawyer McClintock of Springfield raised many interesting legal questions in connection with his associate counsel Lawyer Hibbard, while Crosby & Noxon, appeared to good advantage for the plaintiff. Judge Lilley ruled yesterday morning that the agreement between the company and A. P. Langtry, whereby he became publisher, in October, 1894, so as to relieve the company from liability, was not valid, and that Langtry was to be considered as superintendent or manager

A motion of the defendant that on the whole evidence the plaintiff had not sustained his case, after argument was overruled by Judge Lilley, and the arguments of counsel were allowed. Lawyer Hibbard summed up for the defendant and placed much stress on the fact that Folwell did not take the stand to state what his damages were, where he resided or to give the jury any information. Lawyer Crosby for the plaintiff held that inasmuch as no special damages were claimed he could not so testify. The question of ownership or management was not discussed.

Judge Lilley, in the charge, made a very candid and lucid explanation of the law of libel, of the question of damages, instructing the jury that the retraction not being allowed in mitigation, and not admitted. Folwell was presumed to be a citizen of good repute and that the company was liable as alleged, despite the agreement which he ruled out. He said that Folwell should receive substantial damages if they found he had been injured, although it was a question in which the jury might find even nominal damages of $1. He ruled out the request for damages for mental suffering. The charge lasted for three-quarters of an hour. The jury took the case at 12.30 and were out all the afternoon. Not returning for farther instructions, Judge Lilley directed them to find a sealed verdict, which they will do and report Wednesday morning.

Arthur P. Carpenter and Arthur M. Robinson of North Adams were admitted to the bar, the latter at the special request of Judge Phelps, in whose office young Robinson has studied law. Two other candidates will be admitted at the reassembling of the court Wednesday forenoon.

District Attorney Hammond of Northampton was in Pittsfield Friday and he and Lawyer Hibbard arranged that the trial before Judge Lilley in the case of Receiver Spaulding of the Stockbridge savings bank and the Amherst savings bank will be heard evenings, beginning next week.
